

Lemons Recognized For Years of Service To Industry

Flooring Express held a reception on June 28th to recognize David and Margaret Lemon upon their retirement as this husband and wife team completed 22 years of selling commercial flooring.

Resa Hodnett from Greater Lafayette Commerce presented the Lemon's with a certificate of appreciation as a large group took time to stop by and wish the Lemon's good luck as they ended a long and rewarding career. Jim Andrew remarked, "We've truly enjoyed having Margaret and David on our team."

David noted, "that working together has always been rewarding" as he and Margaret have split the sales and service responsibilities. David handled the paperwork and quoting, while Margaret took the lead on business development and marketing.

David and Margaret joined Home Works/Flooring Express in 2009. Margaret got her start selling commercial flooring in Indianapolis before coming to Lafayette in 1998. Margaret has been active in Greater Lafayette Commerce and other local associations.

David grew up in the floor covering business working in his father's Bloomington, IN business. After a brief period teaching school, David returned to the family business. David arrived in Lafayette in 1995. Once in town he became active in Junior Achievement, served on the board of the Tippecanoe Apartment Association for 15 years, and has contributed his time to several community and industry groups in the Lafayette area.

The Lemons plan to move to Bloomington and build a home on "Lake Lemon" to be close to family. Margaret commented, "We will certainly miss Lafayette and all the wonderful people we have met over the years! Everyone at Henry Poor and Flooring Express has been extremely supportive of David and me. We are very grateful for all they have done for us."

Positive Predictions By Remodelers

Recent data from the National Association of the Remodeling Industry (NARI) forecasts that remodeling projects will get stronger in the next three months. NARI members base their optimism on three key factors: lower rates of postponement of projects, growth due to low interest rates, and improving home prices.

Locally it appears that remodeling projects and new home construction continues to improve. As home prices gradually stabilize and rebound, many homeowners are feeling more confident that they can undertake home improvement projects they have been delaying.

Parade of Homes Supports Local Builders

Henry Poor Lumber, Home Works and Flooring Express all had a part in this year's Parade of Homes sponsored by the Builders Association of Greater Lafayette and held the weekends of July 21 -22; 28 - 29. Materials supplied by the Henry Poor companies were used in a number of the homes built by local Lafayette area builders. There were 22 homes built by 15 different builders on display.

On the Henry Poor website three builders and their homes were featured. This included Crown Line Homes, Green Goose Homes and Tempest Homes. Each used a number of Henry Poor Lumber, Home Works and Flooring Express products in their newly constructed homes. This included carpet and hardwood flooring, cabinets, counter tops, interior doors and trim, windows, doors, decorative stone, lumber, siding, decking and fireplaces.

Tom Andrew commented, "Being part of the Parade of Homes each year is something we enjoy doing. We appreciate the support the local builders give us and the opportunity to show the public all the products we can provide and how we can be part of their next home building or remodeling project."

3-Peat Champions

"We always look forward to taking part in Riverfest activities," noted Jay Andrew. This annual event promotes the Wabash River as a community resource.

For the third year in a row the Henry Poor team outlasted the competition on a very hot day to win the canoe competition. Along with the canoe races there are games, food, pony rides and many fun family activities held at Tapawing Park.

3-D Deck Designs Offer Multiple Looks

Imagine being able to see how your new deck will look when viewed from inside your home. Henry Poor Lumber can now design your new deck using the latest in 3-D imaging software to give you a 3-dimensional image of your dream deck. Not a drawing or sketch - but a realistic image that can be viewed from any angle.

This 3-D Deck Design software allows you to custom design anything from a deck to a pergola to a bench. Take that sketch from the back of a napkin to a realistic 3-D image that allows you to view the end design and obtain an accurate cost estimate.

These designs incorporate many designer deck board styles and color choices from Trex, Azek and others, as well as a variety of custom railing options using different manufacturer's products.

Stop in and let us show how our deck design software can help you visualize your dream deck.
